School Location Chosen

The new south-side grade school will be located in the Walker Tract in the center of a field of poppies, west of the Mission Ranch.

A piece 230 by 480 feet was purchased last week from Jimmy Doud for $16,000; but Bert Deinelt, owner of the adjoining property, a parcel 110 by 480 which is needed for the site, refused to sell. Condemnation proceedings will be instituted immediately, Harold Neilsen, chairman of the school board, told The Pine Cone yesterday.

Deinelt, when approached by Corum Jackson, representative for the school district in the land purchases, refused to quote a price. He stated that he felt that his license to sell liquor at the Mission Ranch would be jeopardized if a school were built in the near vicinity of the night club.

The Doud property, already purchased, fronts on the last block of Monte Verde, bound on the north by Fifteenth avenue, on a south by a line drawn approximately east from the sanitary district pumping station (the sunken metal box surrounded by white water tanks at the end of Monte Verde.)

The Deinelt parcel lies between the Doud property and the Mission Ranch.

The site is on high ground, overlooking the rest of Walker meadows, has a view of the Carmel River mouth and Point Lobos, and at present is a riot of wild flowers. "The poppies are included in the deal," said Jackson.

It is not much closer to the Mission Ranch than the Parochial school, that is an eastern neighbor to the night club.

Kite Festival Is Set For April 19; Hull, Byrne Elected

April 19 has been set as the date for the Annual Carmel Kite Festival, Ernest Calley, traditional major domo of the event, announced Monday when he brushed the redwood needles out of his hair and emerged from Palo Colorado Canyon for a hurry-up trip to town.

He will not be able to do all the work of the festival as heretofore, since he is enjoying a sabbatical leave from his post as shop instructor at Sunset School, and after a visit in Mexico, is trying to complete before school starts next fall a project in Palo Colorado that has been variously rumored to be a fox hole, a sod house, a log cabin, an Indian teepee, a palatial mansion with three swimming pools.

Calley did not throw any light on the question of what he is building, but he said that he would come into town on the day of the festival, award the prizes and run the events.

Arthur Hull, principal at Sunset, Howard Byrne, shop teacher at Carmel High School, and Wilma Cook have agreed to take over the manual labor of putting on the Festival, and the Lions Club will donate the prizes.

Dr. Bird Praises Unselfishness Of Artists; Urges Wider Use Of Movies, Records In Teaching

Carmel is the place where retired scholars can very well initiate new lives for themselves, and Dr. Remsen duBois Bird is an example of the eternal renewal that is found in the flexible mind. Coming here after spending a quarter of a century as President of Occidental College in Los Angeles, he probably meant to settle in and develop a philosophy of growing old gracefully—but there are too many interesting things happening, and too many interesting things that ought to be happening, for a man of Dr. Bird's calibre to be able to rest on his oars. He is probably more active now than ever before, though he insists he wants to be forgotten while he and his wife entertain their friends quietly at Sixteenth and Valley View.

Dr. Bird is one of the leaders in the present plans for the nation-wide Art Show by which the Carmel Art Association will celebrate its twentieth anniversary in August, but he insists it is Paul Whitman who is carrying the full responsibility. He is, however, assisting in the compilation of a list of the one hundred most important painters in the country, a difficult task which will entail a good deal of consulting and revising before it becomes definitive. The one hundred artists on the final list will be invited to send, at the expense of the Art Association, their most important works for inclusion in the exhibit next summer. Dr. Bird calls attention to the fact that since the Art Gallery in Carmel is the "bread basket" of the Carmel artists, it is an extremely generous impulse which prompts the Carmel artists to share this opportunity with their competitors, at the same time that the plan will afford Carmelites the opportunity to see the best available work in the country.

Dr. Bird was born in New York in 1888 and studied at Lafayette College, becoming a Doctor of Divinity in 1919 after taking courses at Princeton and Berlin Universities. He was awarded an Ll. D. by Pomona College in 1937 and an L. H. D. by the University of Southern California in 1940. It was in 1921 that he was appointed President of Occidental College and while there, in spite of arduous duties, he seems to have been able to enter into various other activities. He was director of the Los Angeles Church Federation, trustee of the San Francisco Theological Seminary and of the Southwest Museum. He was director of the Southern California Symphony Association and president of the Association of Colleges and Universities of the Pacific. He was chairman of the State Advisory

GETTING AROUND THE PENINSULA

By GLENN CLAIRMONTE

Inquiries have been coming into The Pine Cone office as to when the community may expect to see the statue of Father Serra, on the highway between Monterey and Carmel, restored, since some unnamed vandals covered it with blue paint last New Year's Eve. At one time when a similar outrage was perpetrated upon this monument the guilty boys were apprehended and their parents, at the request of the Probation Officer, paid a handsome sum to Jo Mora to repaint it. Last year Harry Downie of the Carmel Mission took it upon himself, as a public contribution, to repaint the statue when it had been defaced again.

However, the new situation has not yet been corrected. Chief of Supervisors A. B. Jacobsen recently decided that the County is responsible in view of the fact that the monument stands on county property, having originally been erected by the Del Monte Properties Company when Carmel Woods was opened. It is to the interest of everyone that the monument be kept in good repair, for Carmel residents feel that Father Serra is the "patron saint" of this community, and their patience has been taxed since the first of the year, while everybody waited for everybody else to take steps. Now, at the instigation of The Pine Cone, Andy Jacobsen requested Harry Downie to submit an estimate for the repainting of the statue, and Harry Downie decided that since the public is really interested, he prefers to repair the damage without making a charge. There will be general appreciation on the part of Carmel residents, but this does not remove the sense of indignation that the guilty youngsters have not yet been traced. If the Sheriff wants to prevent a similar occurrence in the future, he might consult Harry Downie who believes he knows how to trace the culprits.

Mr. and Mrs. Zenas L. Potter are today celebrating the publication of another book by their daughter, Jean Potter, who won recognition with her previous book, Alaska Under Arms. This spring The MacMillan Company is publishing The Flying North, which Jean Potter prepared after months of research as well as personal experience talking and flying with the pilots on duty in Alaska. The story she has to tell is one of the most exciting in human annals, and it is with full awareness that she describes the daring exploits of the pioneer flyers. She reports on the lives and flights of the restless airmen who took the first trans-Arctic hop and conquered the glacier distances. For these men every hour on duty is something the reader will find full of suspense and drama, and Jean Potter has made it possible to share their experiences because of her careful work in The Flying North.

Jean Potter is now Mrs. Anatol Chelnoo and is correspondent for Fortune Magazine in Berlin, where her husband is an executive for an air transport and passenger line.

Dr. J. E. Crowther Leaves Estate Valued At $40,000 Charity Bequests Invalid

The will of Dr. James Crowther will be filed for probate Monday, and though it contains bequests to several religious institutions, among them the Church of the Wayfarer, there is grave doubt that any of the charitable bequests are valid, Judge George P. Ross, attorney for the executor, told The Pine Cone yesterday.

Dr. Crowther's estate amounts to approximately $40,000.

According to the statute restricting charitable bequests, no estate may be bequeathed for any charitable purposes by a testator who has survivors who under the will or the law of succession would otherwise have taken the property, unless the will is executed at least thirty days before the death of the testator.

Dr. Crowther signed the will two days before his death.

"I explained to him that if he died within thirty days of making the will, the charitable bequests would be invalid, but he didn't expect to go so soon," Judge Ross said.

First to be remembered in the will was the Church of the Wayfarer: "I give and bequeath the table linen, bed linen, bath linen, personal clothing, jewelry, cutlery, silverware, furniture, rugs, drapes, household furnishings, altar furnishings, flags, stereopticon library, chinaware, kitchenware, tools, radios, grand pianos, and Buick automobile, to the Church of the Wayfarer of Carmel-by-the-Sea, to be used or sold, and the proceeds thereof to be devoted to the purposes of the said Church of the Wayfarer, at the discretion of its executive committee."

Then to eight relatives, most of them residents of England; and to four institutions, $500 each. The institutions are: Dakota Wesleyan University, Mitchell, South Dakota; Garrett Biblical Institute, Evanston, Illinois, "in memory of Dr. D. A. Hayes"; Wesleyan Methodist Church, Worsthorne, Lancashire, England, and The Board of Missions of the Methodist Church, in memory of Mary Crowther.

The residue of the estate was bequeathed to the University Methodist Temple, Seattle, Washington, as a memorial to Mary Crowther.

The Monterey County Trust & Savings Bank was named as executor, and Judge Ross, attorney.

Finally, "I request that my body be cremated, and the ashes thereof be disposed of as inexpensively

Ink Flowing Like Water—All Over Town

Enthusiasm of the week is the two-hour parking time limit for all over the business district, sponsored by the Carmel Business Association. Everybody loves it—so far. Of course, this is Carmel, and the wind can change over night from south to north! Next week, for no reason whatever, everybody may decide that two-hour parking will louse up community affairs disastrously and rush up to have their names scratched off the petitions which they are signing so joyously this week. It has happened before.

Circulating petition to be presented to the city council at its April 9 meeting are Clayton Neill, Mark Raggett, Walter Neilsen, Ralph Castagna, Bob Spencer, Mrs. J .L. Wells, Trev Shand, R. H. Payne, A. B. Hardy and Corum Jackson.

Clayton Neill, among the first to pass around his petition, reported that he got only one refusal among the business people of his block, north side of Ocean between San Carlos and Dolores. Same percentages seem to be holding for other business blocks, and

Catlin To Appeal Jorgensen's Ruling On Pon's House

"I believe that the Court is in error and shall advise my client to appeal the case," John Catlin, attorney for Pon Lung Chung told The Pine Cone on learning that Superior Judge Henry G. Jorgenson had ruled last week in favor of Alf Nilssen, in the case concerning the ownership of a small frame house on San Carlos street.

This house was occupied for 18 years by Pon Chung, who claimed in court, supported by witnesses, that the house was bequeathed to him by Anna Hitchcock and that he was planning to move it to another piece of land, that owned by Mrs. Hitchcock's son, in case he should be requested to move it before he had obtained land of his own. He later obtained a suitable lot but was prevented from moving it by Alf Nilssen, who recently acquired the real estate upon which it rested.

Pon Chung's attorney, John Catlin, was not notified of the judge's decision but heard about it through friends only on Tuesday, when he was visiting in Oakland. Mr. Catlin immediately returned to Carmel.

Memorial Services For Dr. Crowther Set For March 30

Memorial services for Dr. James Crowther will be held at the Church of the Wayfarer, where he served as pastor for seven years, at 3 o'clock on the afternoon of March 30.

Details for the service, still in the process of arrangement, will be announced in next issue of The Pine Cone.

Sunday services at the Church of the Wayfarer will be conducted by loan pastors for the present. Capt. J. K. McConchie, one of the chaplains at Fort Ord, will be in charge next Sunday. The subject of his sermon is Inspiration Point.

Last Sunday, Post Chaplain Major Harry Washer conducted the services.

BOYS' CLUB B. B. TOURNEY FRIDAY AND SATURDAY

Lightweight and heavyweight teams from Santa Cruz, Boulder Creek, Soquel, Watsonville, Monterey, and Carmel will meet in an elimination basketball tourney this Friday and Saturday at the Carmel High School pavilion. The Boys' Club team from these cities have been meeting in informal competition for most of the past basketball season and this tournament is being arranged to give them an opportunity to see who deserves to reign on top of the heap.

Tournament play will start this afternoon when the Monterey Boys' Club and the Watsonville CYO tangle at 5 p. m. At 6:15 p. m. the heavyweight teams of the same two clubs will square off. Play will continue until 10 p. m. tonight and will resume again tomorrow at 9 a. m.

Trophies and medals will be given to winning and runner-up teams and medals will be given to players picked on the All-Tourney team.

Officer Dufur is the guiding hand behind the tourney and is responsible for providing many hours of healthy play for members of the Boys' Clubs.

ABALONE LEAGUE OFF TO FLYING START

With everything running in typical Abalone League fashion the traditional Carmel softball league got off to an auspicious debut last Sunday at the High School field. There was the usual delay while the managers tried to outmaneuver each other in selecting players for their teams. After an hour of give and take the four skippers decided they all had material for a championship aggregation and consented to let Doc Staniford toss out the ball which put the 1947 season in action.

Although Charley Childers' Pilots consisting of Huffman, Timbers, Meentz, Balazs, Whiteside, Dorothy Black, King, Bohlke, Ray, Hale, Mike Ricketts, Ronnie Huffman, Kenneth Gould, and Skipper Lloyd, were picked by Abalone League experts to walk roughshod over Giles' Shamrocks, the rugged Irishmen turned the tables on the Navigators by the count of 10 to 7. Giles fielded a potent outfit made up of Studevant, J. Kelsey, Bell, Younkin, Lowry, Helen Ricketts, Foster, Ky Miyamoto, David Hildebrand, Kurt von Meier, and Cass. Studevant and Kelsey led the mace wielders for the Shamrocks, each collecting 3 for 4. Giles and Dambrowski supplied the power for the Childers-led ten by annexing two blows apiece. Inspired play by the two women participants, Helen Ricketts and Dorothy Black, kept the score to respectable proportions.

Jay Huffman and Pat Timbers Meentz, outfielder for the Pilots, while Giles and Dambrowski served them up for the Shamrocks. Meentz, outfielder for the Pilots connected for the first round-tripper of the current Abalone League season.

In the second fracas the Hull-led Giants proved too much for Cree Wilder's Tigers and blotted their escutcheon with a 9-4 defeat. Steady hurling by Russ Bohlke coupled with heavy hitting by Norvell Yerkes spelled defeat for the hard-fighting Tigers. Severns and Miller served the slants for the Tigers while Bohlke and Hull formed the catcher-pitcher combination for the potent Giants.

The Giant lineup included such ardent Abalone Leaguers as Ricketts, Cook, Butts, Mosolf, Yerkes, DeAmaral, Miyamoto, Laurabelle Nicholson, Mark Hildebrand, Mike Mosolf, Walt Shaw and Allen Knight.

Wilder's Tigers challenged the best the Giants had to offer with Nicholson, Miller, Todd, Handley, Fran Studevant, Severens, Roberts, John Palmer, Allen Knight (age 10) and Lee Studevant.

Eulogies are seldom heaped on umpires, but the work of Andy Del Monte, Andy Weimann and the incomparable Doc Staniford was beyond reproach. They called all their decision with eclat and dispatch and beat off all differences of opinion with highly professional shrugs. Doc proved invaluable in giving spot decisions on the intricate Abalone League interpretation of softball rules.

An Abalone League opener would not be complete without the call for first aid and Kenny Roberts saw to it that this action was supplied when he collided with Tom Handley in the process of gathering in a tall fly in the outfield. These two worthies hit with terrific force, but, outside of a severe charley horse and a knot on the head, suffered no ill effects.

The consensus of opinion is that the Abalone League is in for a grand season and with the invaluable assistance of the Lions Club there should be many Sunday afternoons of fun and frivolity on the High School field.

Next Sunday the Tigers tangle with the Pilots while the Shamrocks and Giants battle for the league lead. Everyone is invited to come up and see the fun.

PINE CONE SOFTBALLERS PLAN AMBITIOUS SEASON

Local softball enthusiasts gathered at Gene Ricketts' Sports Shop last Friday night to lay plans for the forthcoming softball season. It was agreed by all present that efforts should be made to bring the best teams in the area to Carmel so we can continue the fine brand of softball which was presented to the fans last season. The Pine Cone will again sponsor the local aggregation and will deck them out in natty new uniforms. Gene Ricketts was elected president of the club and Raleigh Belvail, vice-president. Bud Butts sits in as secretary, while Harold Studevant will handle the financial affairs.

Additional lights have been procured for Sunset field and they will be installed by sports-loving citizens of Carmel. New poles will replace the temporary supports put up last year so the Carmel softball field will rank with the best on the coast.

The one knotty problem confronting the fans this season is proper bleacher facilities at Sunset field. Efforts are being made to have permanent bleachers installed which will seat about 200 fans. There is sufficient room on the first and third base line to install four-tier bleachers at a nominal cost.

With most of last year's fine Pine Cone team available, this year should see some of the finest softball ever presented on the Peninsula right in our own backyard. Ky Miyamoto, the cleverest softball pitcher in the Stockton tournament last year, will again be on hand to serve them up for Cliff Cook's Coners. In addition to Ky, Gordy and Archie will lend a hand to further entertain Carmel softball enthusiasts. Gene Ricketts, Rip Belvail, Kelly Taylor, Jack Giles, Bud Butts, Jim Kelsey, Chuck Cheshire, Jay Huffman, Harold Studevant, and Joe Nicholson are fit and ready to cavort around the diamond. Walt Warfield has been practicing for the last month to get his voice in proper trim to introduce the players for the opening tilt and Andy Del Monte has assured the players that he will call them in his usual confident manner, so it looks like Carmel softball fans are in for some entertaining evenings this summer.

DR. SISSON'S LECTURE

Lecture III of the series that Dr. E. O. Sisson is giving at the Sunset School Library, Monday, March 24, is titled Faith and Reason. This subject brings up the problem of Religion and Science and their supposed conflict, but says Dr. Sisson, "Since Faith and Reason are partners and not enemies, there is no conflict. Between Science and Theology or creeds—yes, there has been conflict there, always."

Retired Director To Address Class

Next Tuesday evening at 7:30 in Room 11 of Sunset School, Frank Lloyd, the retired Hollywood Director, will address Mrs. Glenn Clairmonte's class in Current Literature.

Mr. Lloyd was a London actor in his youth and came to this country in 1912. He directed for many of the Hollywood producers before organizing the Frank Lloyd Productions. Some of his most successful pictures were Oliver Twist, Sea Hawk, Black Oxen, Berkeley Square, Mutiny on the Bounty, and Under Two Flags. He has been making his home in Carmel Valley since his retirement two years ago and is willing to dig into his reminiscences for the sake of entertaining this Adult School class. Visitors are invited to attend.

Camera Club Show At Carmel Gallery

By Nancy Lofton

The Carmel Art Gallery is now showing a group of photographs by members of the Carmel Camera Club. Several of the photographs bring to mind the somewhat peculiar paradox that in some circles a painting is considered excellent in proportion as it approaches photographic exactness while a photograph is judged on its supposed likeness to a painting. This seems to me in the highest degree a strange confusion. Both painting and photography are but means of expression. A camera is a medium in exactly the same way oil paint is a medium. They are different and there seems no reason for the camera to imitate the hand of a painter, or vice versa. Either medium has great excellencies when the painter or photographer has mastered his medium. It seems to me that clarity is the essential virtue of photography, a clarity that can describe and delineate a particular moment in time with an exactness that no painter either can or should attempt. This momentary insight which may make generalizations from the infinitely particular seems to me a most important thing to have in mind with a camera in hand.

There is a certain fuzziness and mistiness in many of the photographs, which was in some cases undoubtedly intentional and done for effect and in others was not. After all, it is as difficult to master the camera as it is to master paint. In others, there is a beautiful clarity and a sense of insight which I find pleasing. The color prints by R. H. Cummings are very clear and clean and show a remarkable mastery of his technique. Mr. Cummings is concerned largely with pastel color and texture, and he has arranged the same objects in several differing patterns which make an interesting group of studies. The color and the feel of satin, marble, lemon and sea shell are well-expressed.

In the group of black and white prints there is work by Francis Whitaker, Stan Cummings, George Cain, George Seideneck, Horace D. Lyon, Cole Weston, Edward McMurtry, Robert O'Brien, Myron Oliver.

Stan Cummings' print, "Standard Oil"—whose name is writ in water—is an interesting picture, with fine patterns in it and a wonderful sense of fluidity. Francis Whitaker's Rock Swirls and Kelp Patterns has an equally pleasing movement and a fine sense of sensitive awareness. Cole Weston's print of his father against a rock face is clear and fine, with brooding strength in it, and another of his prints has a beautiful background of a rocky cliff which recedes in a fascinating manner, resolving itself into many forms and planes. Another print of Mr. Weston's holds a pattern of flowers and trees knitting over old cypress bones.

Mr. McMurtry's prints are moody and soft and Mr. O'Brien's snow scenes with their coolness and sharpness make an interesting contrast to them.

Both Mr. Seideneck and Mr. Oliver are represented by groups of interesting portrait studies which are somewhat painterly in technique.

The show is interesting and certainly proves how much of himself a photographer sees through his glass. Let us hear more of "photographic reality."

Report On Collinses, Sr. and Jr.

General and Mrs. Leroy Collins have as their guests Mrs. George Ruper Mac Minn and her son, Strother C. Mac Minn, of Pasadena, who have come from the south because of the illness of Mrs. Frank Howard Jones, mother of Mrs. Collins and Mrs. Mac Minn. The Le Roy Collins Jr. are leaving Sunday for Chicago where Major Collins will be stationed with the Fifth Army. Carmel will miss another of the army wives, who carried on with so much spirit during the war.

Students First Contributors To Art Festival Fund

The Art Department, under the direction of Mr. Richard Hagadorn, is busy completing plans for its Festival of Art, a new undertaking of this ambitious group. It is planned to make this festival, sponsored jointly by Carmel High School and the Carmel Art Association, an annual event here, serving to stimulate interest in art and encourage art students in all California senior high schools. The student council of the high school has already shown its interest in this project and its desire to support it by appropriating $25 to help cover expenses.

Awards will be given in three classifications: most creative work in any medium; best still life; any three-dimensional expression, including crafts, sculpture, ceramics, etc.; and each school may submit one entry in each of these classifications. The entries will be judged by a committee of five local artists, and will then be on exhibition in the Carmel Art Association Galleries during the week of May 20-27.

Two New Books By P. C. Contributors Just Off Press

Two contributors to The Pine Cone poetry column, Gordon W. Norris and Edythe Hope Genee, have sent in their newly published books: Song of the Sun, by Carleton Publishing Co., and Brief Aprils, by Dodd, Mead & Co., respectively. Although it is not our custom to review all books received we feel that these two poets, who have been so generous with their contributions to us, should be acknowledged.

Song of the Sun is prefaced by a beautiful foreword written by E. Merrill Root, whose work is well known to us. He says: "Here at the beginning of a brilliant career Gordon Norris already has the power: may he win the glory!" Our own feeling about this young poet could not be better expressed.

In receiving these poems from time to time, submitted to our poetry column, we were aware of something new and fresh and vigorous. Clean courage with words became apparent without any straining for effect. Memorable lines remained in the mind, things that had not been said before. This poetry has muscle and drive and is beautiful because of the poet's oneness with all things beautiful. The beauty is not painted on; it is integral, enduring even through the minor imperfections incident to vigor and strong emotion. This is indeed: "Naked song on a climbing stair."

Brief Aprils, by Edythe Hope Genee, on the other hand has a different beauty. It is feminine and full of grace. The charming drawings by Don Blanding scatter the pages with leaves and feathers and stars and clouds, almost making the essence of the poems visible.

Edythe Hope Genee is sensitive to all the moods of earth and sky, from the grass to the stars. She finds human life interwoven with these and enhanced by their presence. She does not ignore humanity. Poetry to her is not an escape but a realization. Like the cedars by the mill she "bears her weight of sleet in diamond chains.—D. H.

OUT EIGHTEEN STRONG

Last Tuesday morning at nine o'clock a fire alarm sounded and eighteen volunteer firemen rushed to the Village Auto Service, which is owned by Fred Warren, to discover that a few wires had burned out in a Dodge automobile that was being repaired. The fire was extinguished before the Fire Department arrived and no great damage was done.

MRS. KLUDT GOES SOUTH

Mrs. Everil Kludt, who has been serving as secretary of the Women's Auxiliary of the American Legion, has resigned that office and has gone to Beverly Hills for three months. Mrs. Kludt, a former WAC, expects to take a course at a Radio School.

Music Society Asked To Sponsor Student Festival

On Tuesday evening at the regular meeting of the Board of Directors of the Carmel Music Society, Mr. Franklin Dixon, President, introduced Mr. John Farr who is in charge of the music activities at the High School. Mr. Farr spoke about the Annual Music Festival which he intends to inaugurate in May and requested the Music Society to consider means of sponsoring the event.

After his withdrawal members discussed the project, Mr. Dixon claiming that it is necessary to build interest in the young people for the sake of creating future music audiences. Mr. Bruno Adriani led the minority opposition, insisting that the Carmel Music Society is not empowered to enter into such arrangements, but when the By-Laws were read it was recognized that the avowed purposes of the organization do indeed include the encouragement of community interests in music.

Mr. Dixon suggested that the matter be held in abeyance until the next meeting of the Directors which will be held March 25th at the home of Mrs. A. M. Allen of Pt. Lobos. In the meantime the subject will be studied by Dr. Howard Clark who will be prepared to report on his findings.

Editor, Carmel Pine Cone:
Dear Sir:

In your March 7 edition a columnist states "Monterey might be as attractive as Carmel today if it had kept some of its pine trees." Well, here are two visitors who consider Monterey more attractive than Carmel.

Monterey is neat, cleancut; with a liveliness and diversity not found in passive Carmel.

As for trees, Carmel has too many. Along with the entwining masses of longhaired foliage they appear to smother the place—one wonders if a shot of sunshine and fresh air wouldn't do the houses and their inhabitants a load of good.

The natural beauty of Carmel has been distorted in a manner intended to attract the tourist and art industries; despoilments at Monterey may be less subtle but they are less offensive.

Getting Around The Peninsula

A novel by Marjorie Sinclair was published last Tuesday by the John Day Company. Marjorie Sinclair is the sister of Frank Putnam, and she has visited here frequently during the last eighteen years. She was born in South Dakota but spent her childhood in California, studying at Mills College and the University of Hawaii, later returning to Mills for her Master's degree. She is now the wife of Gregg M. Sinclair, president of the University of Hawaii, and has contributed short stories to Asia and the Americas. Her first novel is entitled Kona, and its heroine makes the remark, "It's hard having two bloods." This is the keynote of the story, which discusses the marital difficulties of a woman who is part Hawaiian and part Anglo-Saxon. Mrs. Sinclair is now studying Chinese and Japanese and is engaged in translating some old Japanese poetry into English.

Petition Returned To Dolores Street Property Owners

Owing to its ambiguous wording, a petition of the property owners on the west side of Dolores street between Fourth and Fifth for rezoning, was returned to the petitioners by the planning commission Wednesday for clarification.

The request was for a classification "to conform with the easterly side of the street as a business or a duplex housing zone," instead of stating specifically what zoning classification they desired.

Signers of the petition were Eric Schmidt, Mrs. D. Tanous, Mrs. Eda Kelsey, Mrs. George Cooper, Mrs. R. L. Ames.

Other business of the commission was a discussion of policy. Several suggestions were offered by Donald Craig and a committee was appointed to confer with the city attorney and then place the suggestions in the form of a resolution.

Col. Hillyer Talks On Island Natives

Colonel Roy N. Hillyer spoke last Tuesday evening before Mrs. Glenn Clairmonte's class in current literature, giving a warmhearted report of the natives on the island of Okinawa, stressing the hunger he found there for Christian hymnals and for any available picture of Jesus. He explained the enthusiastic response he received whenever he was able to read to the natives little stories depicting modern American life. Their surprise that American soldiers treated them in a civilized way was one of the touching aspects he described, and his tales of the privation they suffered gladly when they were displaced to the jungles in order to make room for American troops won admiration for their fortitude. Col. Hillyer had to leave the class early in order to reach the hospital in time to visit his daughter and her newly born son, Kevin Leslie Larson, who is a great pride to him.

the people on San Carlos between Fifth and Sixth, a block not included in the original plan, have announced that they want to be dealt in, too, and have been furnished with a petition to fill out.

Corum Jackson, passing around his petition says, "The parking situation is getting so bad something has to be done, and this looks like the best solution. McKinstry gave the best thought-out and most complete report that has ever been presented to the Carmel Business Association. It shows thorough study and careful preparation." Paul McKinstry heads the traffic committee, and Jackson was referring to the report presented at last week's Business Association meeting, when the traffic plan was accepted unanimously by the organization.

Though the plan was endorsed in its entirety, the association decided to concentrate its efforts on the two-hour parking time limit recommendation first, and take up such matters as prohibiting U turns at busy intersections later.

San Jose Choir Gives Outstanding Program For Musical Art Club

By EBEN WHITTLESEY

The concert of the San Jose State College a capella choir, presented under the auspices of the Musical Art Club at the Mayflower Congregational Church last Friday evening, was a program one wishes the whole community could have heard. Music of that sort should not just float off into space and be lost without having been enjoyed by the largest possible number of people. The mixed chorus of nearly sixty voices under the direction of William J. Erlendson was a single instrument of tremendous range and variability, responding with perfect co-ordination and timing to the demands of the music and the direction of its leader. Operating with the conventional limitations of an a capella choir, the group sang a rather varied program which demonstrated thoroughly the effective training it has had. The group showed such splendid training one might have thought they had been practicing together for years, while as a matter of fact most of the boys and girls were simply completing a three months' course of choral singing, taken as part of their college study.

The first group of early classic religious pieces included Tenebrae Factae Sunt by Ingegneri, with its strong Gregorian atmosphere, attenuated chords and somber dignity, the sharply contrasting Exultate Deo by Palestrina, and the Crucifixus by Lotti, displaying very complicated harmonic structure. In all of these the choir exhibited splendid co-ordination, and the precise timing and clean attacks essential to good interpretation of seventeenth and early eighteenth century composers.

The second group contained welcome relief from the liturgical pattern in Springtime of the Year by Vaughn-Williams, which provided some lovely pianissimo passages. The well controlled voices seemed to fade away to nothing at times without losing pitch and with velvety smoothness. One of the loveliest secular numbers was the Trois Beaux Oiseaux de Paradis by Ravel, which featured the solo voice of Emily Baptista. She possessed a pleasant quality and sufficient power to stand well against the choral background. The Three Kings by Willan provided strong contrasts and dramatic effects. Good solo work was also heard in the Benedictus by Paladihle, in which Miss Baptista and Victor McClane were featured.

The program closed with a Motet for Advent by Schreck.

The choir was splendidly balanced with each section operating as a cohesive whole and never dominated by individual voices. The sustained pianissimos, the organ-like crescendos and well controlled diminuendos were characteristics very thrilling to hear. One is hesitant to express such unqualified admiration for a non-professional group, but in this case superlatives are in order without any apology or allowance for amateur deficiencies. This group would do credit to the program of any subscription concert series. The Musical Art Club has done a service to the community in bringing such artists to the Peninsula.

Therese Whiteside's Color Slides On Playhouse Screen

For the benefit of the Carmel Woman's Club building fund, Mrs. Therese Whiteside will project several hundred of her color photographs on the screen of the Playhouse on the evening of Monday, March 31, at 7:45 p. m.

Her pictures are selected scenes of the Big Sur country, Carmel Valley and the Monterey Peninsula.

1947 BUICK
Hang on to your Hearts, Folks —
it's easy to lose them to this one

Sure as sunrise, it's going to happen:

Someday you're going to slip into a sleek-lined Buick Convertible "just to see what it feels like."

You'll want to find out for yourself if it's as wonderful as it seems to ride in all this stunning style — to be boss of the year's brightest highway beauty.

Well, you find a wheel that seems molded to your hand, deep, wide seats that might have been fashioned for your own special comfort.

You'll look out over a broad bonnet, front-tipped with a richly gleaming grille, and know how a king feels sitting on his throne.

Just listen as eight big Fireball cylinders erupt into life — then settle to a sweet contented purr.

Watch—as each threatening road-jar meekly subsides under the gentle magic of soft coil springs on all four wheels.

Get the feel of roadweight that's like a steadying hand guarding every mile. Try the handy push-button controls that operate the top, the door windows, even the front seat adjustment.

Test the lightness of the wheel, the quick bite of brakes, the instant upsurge when you touch off the gas treadle.

By now, you find yourself succumbing completely.

This, you tell yourself, is meant for me. How do I make it permanent?

The first step is to see us — and get your name down.

After that — the busy beavers of Buick's on-the-ball production staff will move heaven and earth to join you and your one-and-only the first possible moment.

C. U. Cast Gives Deeply Moving Dramatic Reading

Last Sunday evening in the Girl Scout House, the Council of Civic Unity of the Monterey Peninsula presented a reading of the Broadway hit, Deep Are the Roots, by Arnaud d'Usseau and James Gow, the authors of Tomorrow the World, the powerful play which toured the country during the war, exposing the educational system of the Nazis. This play, which grapples with the race problem in the South, was deeply moving as it was given by eight talented local actors, with Irene Alexander as master of ceremonies. The part sof the three Negro characters of the play were enacted by Mrs. Phyllis Oliver, her daughter, Harriet Hooper, and her son-in-law, Captain Clifford Hooper, recently separated from the U. S. Army. It was a stroke of luck that Miss Alexander, in searching for a trained actor to take the part of the Negro Army Captain, was able to contact Captain Hooper, who could thus appear in his own uniform, wearing his own service ribbons and overseas stripes.

The other parts were taken by Lee Crowe, Ruth Marion McElroy, Peggy Moreau, Joe Schoeninger and Victor Brune, all of them gifted readers who conveyed the meaning of the lines capably, without any attempt to dramatize. In spite of the fact that there was no scenery and no attempt on the part of the actors to do anything but present the lines as they read from their books, the incisive message of the play hit home to the hearts of the large audience. Since an unexpectedly large crowd had assembled to hear the play, there were not enough chairs, but no one grumbled at having to stand or lean against the wall, or sit on the floor before the stage, because once the reading was commenced, nothing but the play was thought about. Requests have been made to repeat this reading in a larger auditorium.

Hi Chatter

By MARY GREGORY

A never-to-be-forgotten time was had last Friday by 31 Carmel students who journeyed to the city to see the opera La Traviata. The trip, organized by the Girls' Glee club, under the direction of John Farr, was the first excursion of its type Carmel has ever known, and judging from discussion overheard this week, it was a huge success from every standpoint. Through the courtesy of Producer Tom Girton the girls were allowed to go backstage between the second and third act. There they met the leads, saw all the interesting things to be seen backstage, and from the wings watched the curtain go up on the third act. Chaperoned by Mr. Farr and Miss Ruth Herzig, those going were: Nancy Anderson, Carol Bedeau, Becky Bell, Marlene Becar, Pat Bullard, Lourdes Brosnan, Barbara Bracisco, Edelen Cory, Jane Coughlin, Louise Daniels, Joan Daniels, Hilary Carnson, Glorian Douglas, Mary Eleanor Horne, Janice Hatton, Nancy McCarthy, Mildred McEntire, Joan McGrath, Connie McKibbin, Patsy Pierce, Janet Richey, Nancy Santee, Delora Sharpe, Jackilyn Six, Joyce Stiles, Barbara Stoney, Eleanor Taggert, Diane Tait, June Updike, Ann Whittaker, and Cynthia Carr.

Tonight at 8:30 the annual Sophomore Hop will take place. This year the class has decided to have a barn dance, with the appropriate cider and pretzels for refreshments. Hard-working chairmen are Kathie von Meier, general chairman; Zoe Beyma, refreshments; Helen Prosser, decorations; Jackie Briggs and Laurel Hildebrand, publicity; Harry Watson, music; Art Harber, cleanup, and Jennifer Lloyd, reception.

PRIOR INJURED

Byron Prior, tractor driver for M. J. Murphy company, sustained a dislocated shoulder, and was badly shaken up and bruised when a Caterpillar-bulldozer slid from the road Prior was making at the Allen Knight ranch, and turned over.

Carmel Red Cross ambulance, manned by Gene Ricketts, Andy Wiemann and Roy Walls brought him to the Peninsula Community Hospital.

THE MOST BEAUTIFUL THING I'VE SEEN

A big, big sunflower, Michael Elsen; A pretty rose, Betty Buffington; Big, big strawberries, George Blanks.

In Yosemite we went over to a court where there were green trees and deer. A fawn with white spots came out. That is the most beautiful thing I've ever seen, Laurel Martin.

Baby red roses, Pat Harney; Pink fuchsias, Gerald Byrne; One of those big, big pansies, Patty Elston; Girls with beautiful dresses, ice skating and spinning circles and things, Suzann Pilot.

A silver beetle, Virginia Elliott; Picture of Niagara Falls, Gary Bain; A horse show, Mary Stickler; Snow falling, John Morse; A rainbow with very thick colors, Christopher Jones; My dog shining in the light, Joyce Ricketson; A ladybug, Ronnie Kimball; A cake with your name on it, Margaret Cameron; Butterflies, Carol Burger and James McMullin; Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs, Tom Wilson.

Save our trees!
Save our animals!
Please put out your fires!
PLEASE DO!
We love our forests!
So please be careful!
—Sherman Lawson.

In Muir Woods the animals were living a peaceful quiet life and especially the little rabbit but one day some people came on a camping trip and were very careless going home without being sure that the camp fire was out. Only a spark of fire was left but the breeze played with it and soon the animals were frightened and the trees were scarred. Please, oh, please be careful with fire!
—Bonny Lynn Redhead.

SPRING IS COMING

Many flowers are blooming today
The birds are singing and humming
The children are all out to play.
Do you know why?
Spring is coming!
—Danny Brosnan.

A COLLIE DOG

A gallant little collie pup,
Named Princess, came to me.
She was ragged and dirty
When I first found her
But now she's as clean as can be.

Now she's four and has some pups
Three cute little collie ones,
One is white and the others yellow,
Their names are Hero, King and Tums.

You may think Hero and King are nice names
But I think Tums is best
And Tums is proud of his name
As are all of the rest.
—Erin Black.

Winter's past
Spring is here at last.
It brings its lovely weather.
Animals run about in plenty of room
Flowers are in bloom.
The sky is brighter blue
And you feel brighter, too.
Spring is here at last.
—Karen Johnson.

KELLERSBERGERS TO SPEAK

Work of the American Mission to Lepers in many parts of the world will be described this afternoon by Dr. and Mrs. Eugene R. Kellersberger at 2:30 in a meeting at the Congregational church on Central avenue in Pacific Grove. The meeting is sponsored by the Monterey Peninsula Council of Church Women, of which Mrs. Ramsey Benson is president.

Nina Hiller

Death came to Nina Hiller Sunday morning in the early hours at the Palm Nursing Home at Santa Cruz, after an illness of two years. Private services were held Monday afternoon in Santa Cruz, attended by her sister, Miss Rachel Hiller, only survivor, and a small group of friends. Nina Hiller was a native of New York. She came to Carmel in 1930, and made her home here on Monte Verde with her sister.

Miss Hiller will always be remembered by those who knew her for her gentle, lovely spirit and her quiet sense of humor. These qualities and her utter selflessness endeared her to all her friends.

Friends Discuss Dr. James Crowther Memorial Fund For New Church

BY ZENAS POTTER

Establishment of a James E. Crowther Memorial Trust Fund for erection at some future date of a new Church of the Wayfarer is a distinct possibility. Informal discussions that are taking place among members of the congregation may come to a head at the meeting of the membership in May.

Dr. Crowther had been anxious for some time to see the church take steps toward erection of a more adequate plant. Sunday after Sunday members of the congregation have been unable to get into the main edifice and have been seated in a back room where they could not even see the minister. Children in the Sunday School have been huddled in groups in one large room, where conflicting voices of different teachers have made instruction difficult. And Dr. Crowther's great interest in the young people of Carmel never could find expression in giving them a place where they could gather for recreation and social events.

Last year Dr. Crowther acquired 11 building lots, at prices considerably below the present market, which he offered to the church at his purchase price. His real intent, it is known, had his offer been accepted, was to give them to the church, as a memorial to his late beloved wife, Mary, if the membership adopted the program. The executive committee of the church favored acceptance of the Doctor's offer, but it was turned down by the trustees. The latter felt that much of the inadequacy of the present church structure was due to the great ability of Dr. Crowther himself; that if ever he should leave, the congregation might shrink.

Dr. Crowther held that under any circumstances an auditorium seating only 150 persons was wholly inadequate in a community as large and rapidly growing as Carmel. And he felt thwarted that he could not reach out and give the young people of Carmel a recreation center under wholesome conditions, where they could grow up to be better citizens for tomorrow. He also felt that if the Community Church did not adequately meet the community's needs various denominations would be tempted to build in Carmel and the church unity, achieved here and so greatly needed elsewhere, would be lost.

The disagreement between the executive committee, Dr. Crowther and the trustees caused quite a wide cleavage of opinion, but were exaggerated. The difference was largely a matter of timing. Everyone knew that sooner or later the present church edifice would be outgrown. The only question was whether the time to build a new church was now. The proposal to establish a Memorial Trust Fund avoids this difference. It recognizes that a new church in the not too far distant future is inevitable, but leaves to the future determination as to just when the plans for a new building should be drawn. But it insures that when the right time comes the church will not start from scratch in financing the new structure; but will at least have a good nest egg of funds, if all the money needed is not then available.

A week before his death Dr. Crowther discussed his dreams for the new church. The lovely Italian carving that gives the present church such charm, he said, could become the main decorative feature of the new church, being used in the chancel. He felt also that a business center location for the church was not necessary. He expressed the belief that before another decade had passed the high school might be the center of Carmel. Such details, however, are not involved in the trust fund proposal. Its establishment would leave wholly to the future such matters as location, planning and timing of the project. It would merely set up a fund to which current contributions and bequests could be made and give those who loved and feel personally indebted to Dr. Crowther an opportunity to express how they feel.

Some contributions to the James E. Crowther Memorial Trust Fund already have been received. Doubtless others will come in before the regular meeting of the congregation in May.

Vets File Claims For Tax Exemptions At City Hall Office

Eligible veterans, including many from World War II, are applying this week for tax exemption up to $1,000 on assessed valuation of property.

Forms of property statement and claim have been mailed to known claimants by both the city and county assessors, and this year it is expected there will be many new claimants who have not yet been listed as eligible.

Veterans and servicemen of Carmel and the adjacent district may obtain the proper forms and file claims for both city and county with Deputy Harold R. Studevant in City Assessor Peter Mawdsley's office at the City Hall through March, April and May to get exemption on this year's assessment roll which has to be completed in June.

To be eligible, veterans must be legal residents with assets not in excess of $5,000, or if married, $10,000 held as community property.

Affidavits declaring all property, both taxable and non-taxable, must be signed, and the veteran must present his honorable discharge papers. The exemption also extends to men still in service, and pensioned widows and mothers of veterans of any war.

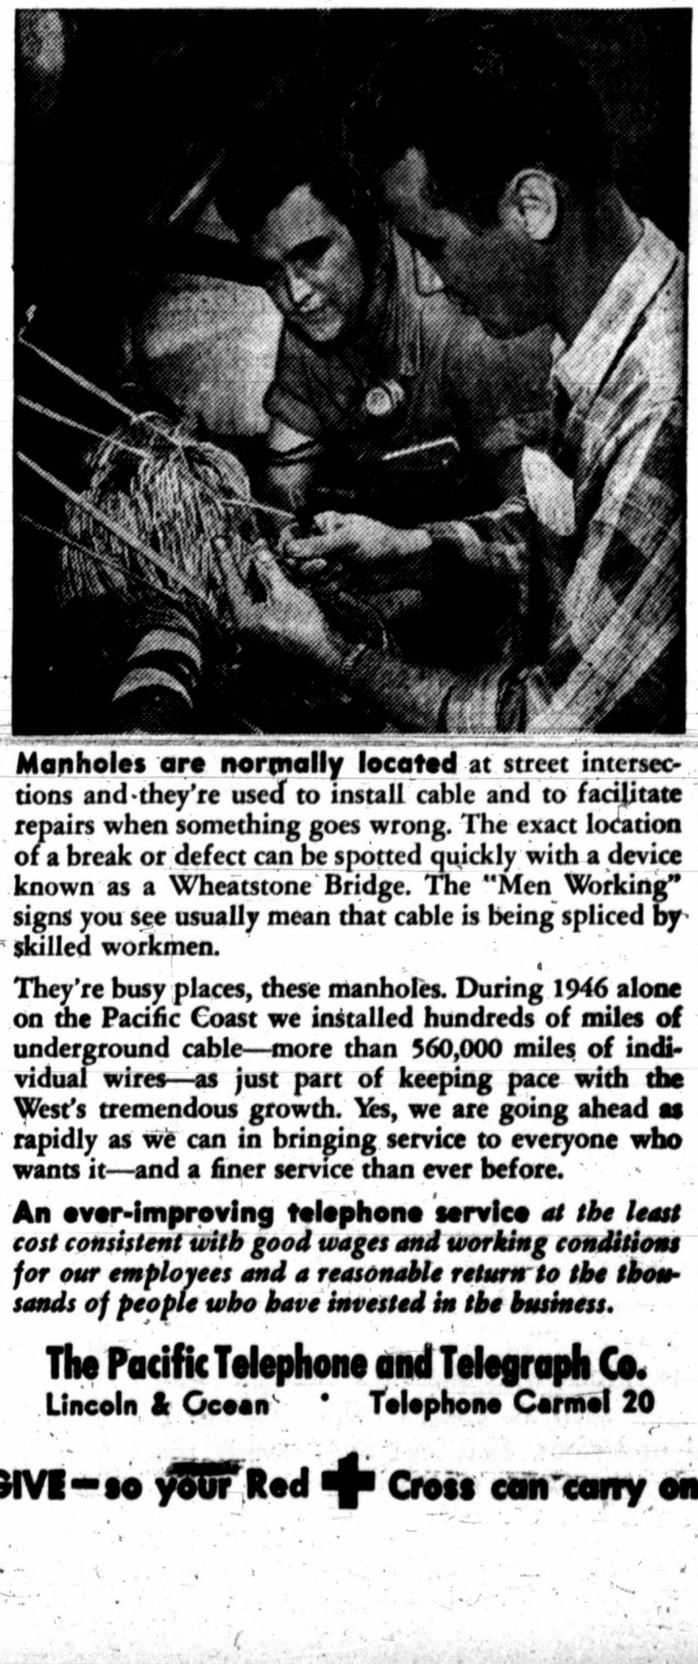
What goes on in a manhole?

Come on down . . . and see where your voice goes as it flashes across the city in a telephone call. For in most places now a major part of the voice arteries you use are underground . . . in a huge network of cables some of which are nearly three inches across and may carry up to 4242 individual wires.



Manholes are normally located at street intersections and they're used to install cable and to facilitate repairs when something goes wrong. The exact location of a break or defect can be spotted quickly with a device known as a Wheatstone Bridge. The "Men Working" signs you see usually mean that cable is being spliced by skilled workmen.

They're busy places, these manholes. During 1946 alone on the Pacific Coast we installed hundreds of miles of underground cable—more than 560,000 miles of individual wires—as just part of keeping pace with the West's tremendous growth. Yes, we are going ahead as rapidly as we can in bringing service to everyone who wants it—and a finer service than ever before.

An ever-improving telephone service at the least cost consistent with good wages and working conditions for our employees and a reasonable return to the thousands of people who have invested in the business.

Have You Read . . . ?

By Nancy Lofton

It is difficult to write about Darrell Figgis' The Return of the Hero. It would be much better to quote the book entire. Why bother to reframe something already perfectly contained? Let this serve, however, as an introduction to a book which should be better known, but probably will not be, since it is almost impossible to obtain a copy. If you have a copy, I'd be delighted to buy it.

The book was first published under the pseudonym of Michael Ireland and it was with the greatest difficulty that James Stephens managed to convince people it was not his creation. Later the book was published under the name of Darrell Figgis, but according to James Stephens it was equally unlikely that Mr. Figgis was the author. Darrell Figgis was an Irish revolutionary, and the same Irish love of freedom and dislike of authority imposed from above, which made him a leader in the Sinn Feinn, breathes through The Return of the Hero.

The subject matter of The Return of the Hero comes from the ancient-pre-Christian Irish saga known as the Finn cycle, which deals with the heroic company of the Fianna, led by the great Finn Maccumhal. Oisin, the son of Finn, leaves the world for the Fortunate Isles, the Land of the Shi', after the disastrous battle of Gabhra, at which both his father Finn and his son Oscar are slain. After several hundred years Oisin returns to Ireland, drawn by his memoriies to find his father and son. This is the point at which Mr. Figgis opens his story. There is a curious and ancient tradition regarding the return of Oisin which is still sung by the bards in Ireland. No less an authority than Gibbon, in his Decline and Fall of the Roman Empire, comments on the tradition that Oisin returned somehow from the great days of Ireland and argued with one of the early Christian missionaries, supposedly Saint Patrick. This argument is the meat of Mr. Figgis' story. Saint Patrick seeks to convert Oisin, not, it must be admitted, for purely selfish ends. The whole matter of Oisin's salvation hangs on whether or not his father Finn might conceivably be in heaven. Otherwise he is not interested. The story of Patrick and his bishops matched against Oisin is marked by varying qualities of delicate irony which almost imperceptibly becomes satire, by passion which shades into violence and tenderness, by seriousness which becomes laughter and by grave humor. The tone of the argument and its final conclusion have been called anti-Christian. It is more anti-clerical, and between the two terms there is considerable difference.

In Patrick's attempts to save the soul of Oisin he meets with a peculiar and regrettable obtuseness about the whole matter of salvation which disturbs Patrick not quite as much as it disturbs his attendant bishops. Oisin represents the great heroic virtues, distinguished first of all by magnanimity and courage, and there is something in him which speaks very clearly to Patrick. Had the two been left to themselves they might have eventually reached if not common at least adjoining ground. Patrick was unfortunately blessed with disciples, the most zealous of whom were the most trying. Among them there is the stern Auxilius, who speaks with great authority. As a bishop he states his case clearly, "Whom we bind is bound, whom we loose is loosed. If we are to speak with authority—we must be in a position to make our conditions absolute. Once admit doubt into our decisions and authority is undone."

There is Seachnall who would use Oisin as a tool. "When a myth has been discovered," he says, "it is necessary to demonstrate the myth, and to praise it as the foolish heart of men foretelling its hope of true teaching. We thus enlist all men in our cause, for it is foolish to think of opposing man."

It is Iserninus who takes the opposite view that a myth, such as Oisin's tales, should be trampled underfoot. Iserninus feels deeply that

ONE SCHOLARLY CREDO

New felicities imagined are
As mist. Only the long-survived
Has truth for body. Mummify
The flesh to make it real. Let spiders
Spin the thread of verity
About the leather fold, the cornice,
Sheaf of song, and the aged
Unmoving state. Permit no youthful
Thrusts to pierce the antique armor
Of our thought.
He rides astride
A sure-doomed phantasma who seeks
Parnassus on a new-wrought wing—
Who dares where spiders have not tried
The age, the eagerness to hold
A web.
Turn all sight backwards, youth;
Be safe, secure; dwell only with
The ancient, certain dust.

CROWN OF WHITE

Here in the chilly purple of the dawn
Each blade and petal wears a strange array,
Gossamer crystals modeled from the stars,
Fading like them before the sunny day.

Not yet the yellowed leaf, the drooping stem,
Only proud bearing of a crown of white;
Death never came more beautifully than this,
Spun out of dew and coldness of the night.

—Marcus Z. Lytle

CYCLE

Let us ride down the green hills
Into the dawn,
Stirrup to stirrup, thigh to thigh,
And watch the altar boys of the sun
Snuff out the stars in the sky.

Let us lie in the shade of the willows
At noon,
Shoulder to shoulder, arm to arm,
And watch the silvery leaflets turn
In the day wind, gentle and warm.

Let us walk on the hill by the sea
At dusk,
When shadows are mauve and blue,
And watch the darkening sky of night
As the stars prick through.

Days Before Yesterday

Back in 1926, an anonymous young man (apparently well known to Carmel readers at the time, although he failed to sign his name) wrote a letter to his father about Carmel.

Under the heading, With All Its Faults, He Loves It Still, the letter was quoted as follows in the Pine Cone of March 20, 1926: "Carmel is neither a town, nor a country, but a State of Mind. Of course it is beautiful; the fact that one half of its population consists of artists, near artists and would-be artists is sufficient proof. The other half are writers in the same classification. Occasionally the two meet, and the air is full of such jargon as chiaroscura, tones, nuances, etc., neither party comprehending the other in the least, and so we live in peace, although a pessimistic government has stationed a strong force of infantry and artillery in a neighboring town.

"Carmel is built on, to put it mildly, undulating ground, and consequently, owing to the steep grades, the air is full of the protesting squeals of overwrought brakes and shrieks of agonized tires; one soon gets hardened to this and considers Carmel a quiet little town.

"Owing to the potholes, ditches, vegetation and fallen logs, none of the local inhabitants regard the traffic rules seriously, there is a delightful give-and-take attitude, take the best side of the road, and give the other fellow what is left, which results in the survival of the fittest, Fords and Dodges being predominant. . . .

"Two of Carmel's greatest assets are the Sea and the Beach. No one pays the slightest attention to them, except the gulls, a few dogs and an occasional artist of the would-be standard, too young to know better or too contemptible to be worthy of reproof from his betters. Carmel being a sea side village, everyone tries to get as far from the sea as possible, in the pine woods for preference; the deeper you get into the woods the higher your social status; of course you may have a distant glimpse of the sea, but this is by no means an asset and only to be mentioned with an apology.

"Then there are the houses. Architects come and go in Carmel. They come full of hope and ideas, and sooner or later are carried away to some quiet asylum hopelessly insane. There is every type and style of house from Spanish and Colonial down to the Early, Late and too Late English. A proud, indignant brick Colonial sits disdainfully between a tearful little Adobe on one side, and a jazzily bright Spanish stucco on the other, overlooking a log cabin grimly hanging on between two Hispano-Swiss-Moroccan Palaces, while the gardens themselves, as varied as their houses, listen wearily to the continual bickering of the Palms and Pines which sometimes have to be forcibly separated.

"Carmel has one main street, Ocean Avenue, so called because if your brakes are not good you finish up in the Ocean. Parallel to this the streets are numbered for inconvenience and named for exasperation. They are mostly in Spanish but one soon gets used to Saint John being somewhat pathetically changed to San Wan. Unlike Ocean Avenue, many of the parallel streets do not go through to the ocean but are blind alleys, and so it is unwise to give directions to a stranger by the number of 'blocks'; one helpless pedestrian was picked up by a car some four miles south of Carmel still trying to count five blocks from Ocean Avenue.

"The roads are all dirt, very dirty, and as the houses are generally invisible from the road itself, and are approached by driveways themselves far superior, it is no unusual occurrence for even a native to mistake a driveway for one of the streets; one bashful visitor after an embarrassing interruption of two private garden-parties, a school recess and an open-air mothers' meeting, drove disconsolately back to Ocean Avenue where he hired a guide and eventually reached his friend's abode.

"Carmel being a small village, conditions are

Public Invited To L.W.V. Debate On C. V. Project

Tonight at 8:00 o'clock in Sunset School library the Central Valley Project will be discussed by Mr. Richard Boke, director of reclamation on the project, and Mr. E. A. Long of San Francisco, manager of the public relations department of the Pacific Gas and Electric company. Mr. Boke grew up in Carmel, attending Sunset School and Monterey High School. He studied at Antioch University in Ohio and at Chicago University, majoring in science, including agricultural subjects. Since graduating he has been in government employ in the reclamation service. During the war he served our government for four and a half years in South America, spending some time in every country of the continent.

Mr. Long took his engineering degree at Stanford University and worked for the P. G. & E. as an electrical engineer before he was promoted to his present position. This meeting was arranged by the Monterey Peninsula League of Women Voters to enable the public to get the best information possible upon the project that will prevent recurrent floods in the Sacramento and San Joaquin valleys, impound an immense volume of water for irrigation and greatly enhance agriculture in the area, and furnish a vast amount of electric power for industry and home and farm consumption.

Girl Scout News

The Girl Scouts and Brownies have been having a wonderful time this season in celebration of the Thirty-fifth Anniversary of Scouting. Last Saturday they were offered special rates at the Del Monte Rollerdrome from two to four in the afternoon. Mrs. Eugene Scheffer and Mrs. George C. Bestor supplied the transportation, and Mrs. Charles Miller, Miss Shirley Shively and Mrs. Ben Updike chaperoned the Scouts, while Mrs. Robert Emery and Mrs. Crosby Owen were in charge of the Brownies. Mrs. Florence Dodd substituted for the leaders of Brownie Troop 4, but when they arrived at the Rollerdrome there were not enough skates to go around, so Mrs. Dodd took the troop to the Pacific Grove Beach for a picnic instead. This group now has a special invitation to skate tomorrow afternoon and Mrs. Dodd will again be in charge.

The Girl Scouts and the Brownies are now planning a picnic for April 20 in honor of Juliette Low, the founder of Girl Scouting, and all troops are working on projects through which they hope to raise money for needed equipment. All Scouts and Brownies are making things to sell and racking their brains for ideas, so that the whole organization is buzzing.

Co. H. S. Chorus To Present Palm Sunday Concert

The County High School Chorus, which is directed by John Farr of the Carmel High School, is now rehearsing for a concert to be given at 5 p. m. on Palm Sunday, March 30, at All Saints' Church candlelight service. The Seven Last Words of Christ, by DuBois, will be presented, with Miss Jean Stanbridge of Sunset School as accompanist.

This choir is composed of high school students from Salinas, Monterey, Pacific Grove and Carmel, the following Carmelites included in the membership: Pat Bullard, Joan Daniels, Becky Bell, Margaret Rigdon, Benita Updike, Gloriann Douglas, Georgeann Bell, Joan Sanders, Eleanor Bannerman, Joyce Bannerman, Jennefer Lloyd, Cynthia Carr, Louise Daniels, Edith Barbie, Ann Rigdon, Bob Jensen, Basil Allaire, Bob Barry, Paul Warner, Bob Bell, Victor Harber, and Arthur Harber. Soprano solos will be given by Roberta Maher of Pacific Grove, June Tombleson of Salinas and Anne Van Renterghem of Salinas. Baritone solos will be by Ted Oliver and Bill Beck of Salinas and Frank Lawlor and Ben Mack of Pacific Grove. Bob Jensen of Carmel will give a tenor solo.

The public will be invited to hear this performance, and in the next issue of The Pine Cone the program will be announced.

MATSON FINED

Last Saturday afternoon the Carmel Police took Robert S. Matson into custody when he arrived at a garage to take delivery of a car which he had left to be repaired. He was charged with having careened into a road sign and telephone pole at Carpenter and First Streets, the previous evening, and with not having reported the accident to the authorities. Appearing before Judge George Ross in the Municipal Court, Mr. Matson explained that he had been driving a borrowed car and had thought merely of having the damage to the car repaired. He was fined $10.

Do Men Like Women?

Maybe you read that recent article in a national magazine, claiming that American men don't really like the company of women. They just put them up on a pedestal and leave them there.

But I wouldn't say that that was so in our town. Look at any married couple—like the Cuppers. Jane wouldn't nag if Dee spent his evenings "with the boys"—but actually Dee likes nothing better than to stay home by the fire, sharing a glass of beer with Jane, playing cribbage, or just talking.

And when he does go out, for an afternoon of fishing down at Seward's Creek, or for an evening glass of beer at Andy Botkin's Garden Tavern, Jane is almost always with him (except when she's got a spot of baking in the oven).

From where I sit, respect doesn't rule out everyday companionship . . . and never should. They go together—essential parts of a successful marriage.

Doctor Bird Praises Artists' Unselfishness; Urges Use of Movies

Committee of the National Youth Administration from the inception of that authority until its relinquishment when the economy of the nation improved. He was president of the Los Angeles City Planning Commission and a member of many learned societies and several social clubs.

Dr. Bird's great interests during his past years have merely whetted his appetite for the possibilities of the future, and as an educator he is alive to the value of the new audio-visual programs which will make it possible for the decreased number of school teachers to give instruction to the increasing number of pupils by means of the new techniques. He recognizes that in the past all the industrial techniques were in the hands of capable business men who did not realize the needs of education, whereas the trained educators were out of touch with the well equipped industries. Now he is making efforts to be the liaison officer between these two groups. He considers it of paramount importance that the classrooms shall have the benefit of technological advances, and because of the success in teaching thousands of members of the armed forces through moving pictures with sound track, he looks forward to revolutionizing the public school methods which have grown inadequate. He speaks with enthusiasm of the fact that in the Army it was possible to teach ten thousand soldiers, sitting on the side of a hill, how to use a rifle, through screen and sound, instead of dividing such a crowd into classes of thirty-five or forty students and lumbering through with the old system. Everything depends now, he believes, on the efficient semination of information, and when the moment comes that the school teacher is equipped to give the full benefit of modern knowledge, there will surely be an advance in educational facilities. The teacher should have at her desk an automatic projector as well as a recording instrument. At the pressure of a button she should be able to give her pupils a great trained voice in the reading of Shakespeare or Tennyson, showing literature as a living art, and at the pressure of another button she should be able to darken the room and focus the children's eyes to the screen behind her desk, letting them partake of a dramatic scene in days of the historical period she is teaching about. Now that the housewife is being supplied with electrical assistance for her daily tasks, attention must be drawn to the needs of the school teacher. No longer should she start her work with the aid of a pointer and a piece of chalk—she must have at her command the results of technological knowledge, and she must be able to draw upon the talents of artists and writers and musicians to illustrate her lectures, just as she must be able to impart the scientific information available to mankind without herself feeling the full burden of this work.

Dr. Bird's youthful vigor, when he talks on this subject, is one of the guarantees that the next hundred years will be the most enlightening for our people. He rejoices that the State of California has a Department of Audio-Visual Education, headed by Dr. Francis Noel whom he considers an eminent guide into the new era. All the advantages of the present-day industrial discoveries will be investigated and the school system will gradually be streamlined to carry the great messages of today in the most efficient manner, straight into the schoolroom where the children of the future will be able to draw on the information being so rapidly uncovered by the scientists of the world. In working out such a program Dr. Bird has been in consultation with the full staff of the Huntington Library in the South.

During the last week Dr. and Mrs. Bird have been entertaining a New York friend of theirs, Jack Capp, who is president of Decca Records, and who has been the pioneer in bringing the benefits of industrial techniques to join the advantages of trained minds. He has been consulting Dr. Bird, as an educator, and has been engaging the finest talent available to carry out some of Dr. Bird's educational ideas. One of the fruits of their frequent discussions is a record album entitled our Common Heritage, a series of sixteen records accompanied by a book which presents the great American poetry as selected by Louis Untermeyer. In this album the voice of Frederic March can be heard reciting Paul Revere's Ride, in a way that will arouse the listener to understand the beginnings of the fight for liberty. Bing Crosby is one of the contributors to this album and, forsaking his croon, he reads the Star Spangled Banner and makes it live. Walter Houston reads Walt Whitman's Captain, My Captain, bringing home to the present day school child the nationwide loss of Lincoln more poignantly than any textbook has ever been able to do. Dr. Bird also has some effective recordings of Charles Laughton's reading which give color to the new educational program. He expects a visit from Charles Laughton within the next few days and plans an illuminating evening for a group of his friends who will help make Mr. Laughton welcome.

Ride 'Em Cowboy Wilson Dumped

Phillip Wilson, the old cow hand from Texas, provided an unscheduled event at the Tri-County Rodeo at the Mission Ranch last Sunday. The fence was lined with spectators, frozen to the rail, and those who couldn't get a seat were stamping their feet to get warm. Some philanthropist had provided Phil with a long mackinaw which was the envy of optimists who thought it was Spring.

Along came George Shorey on his prancing bay, Hell's-A-Poppin. He offered Phil a ride to the ranch house and the old bronco buster lost no time getting aboard aft of Shorey. Hell's-A-Poppin, who happens to belong to a union that is all out against carrying super-cargo, stopped work as if the whistle had blown and stood on his head and fore feet. Phil, in the Texas tradition, refused to touch leather, dug his heels into Hell's-A-Poppin's ribs. That was like a signal to the miners from John Lewis, and Hell's-A-Poppin began putting his heart into his bucking. A roping contest in the corral was all but forgotten as the crowd divided its yells and cheers; when Phil stuck, his backers howled approval, and when he appeared to topple, with the tails of the mackinaw soaring out like wings of a plane about to take off, Hell's-A-Poppin sympathizers yelled their heads off. The mackinaw was no aid or comfort to Phil, for each time it flapped the flanks of the horse, he went in for bigger and better bucking. The loud speaker on the truck focused its attention on the contest and blared out a blow by blow description. In all fairness to Wilson, who was practically brought up on a horse in Texas, it was conceded that it was the mackinaw that piled up the odds against him and when he was pitched off into the weeds Hell's-A-Poppin's victory was discounted and some of the judges hinted there was dirty dealing somewhere, especially since Shorey was permitted to stay on.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCH

"Matter" is the subject of the Christian Science Lesson-Sermon for Sunday, March 23, with the Golden Text from Colossians: "Set your affection on things above, not on things on the earth" (3:2).

The following citations are included in the sermon:

I John: "The world passeth away, and the lust thereof: but he that doeth the will of God abideth for ever" (2:17).

"Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "The verity of Mind shows conclusively how it is that matter seems to be, but is not. Divine Science, rising above physical theories, excludes matter, resolves things into thoughts, and replaces the objects of material sense with spiritual ideas" (p. 123).

Allen Griffin Is Speaker For Woman's Club

By HELEN CLARK CRANSTON

Some Peninsula Problems were discussed by Colonel Allen Griffin before the Carmel Woman's Club Book Section last Monday afternoon.

Progress in community planning has been slow in America, said the speaker, due partly to lack of public interest in problems not immediately profitable and partly to the fact that the subject has not been made an important and interesting study in school and college curricula. "However," continued Colonel Griffin, "American civilization has reached a stage where people are finding it reasonable to have a healthy and enjoyable life during part of the period in which it is going on.

"I don't like to hear the matter of playgrounds, boys' clubs, and similar projects presented as a preventive against juvenile delinquency. We should have such things because it is the intelligent and decent thing," said the speaker.

Colonel Griffin commended Carmel for the recent school bond election which permits advance planning and also for prevailing upon the Board of Equalization to prevent the further spread of saloons. "The latter is basically a predatory business and needs constant watching."

Recommending strong support for the Collier highway program, to which Governor Warren is committed, Colonel Griffin said the proposed highway system would have great effect upon this area.

"Appointment to a planning commission is one of the most serious that can be made in a community," said the speaker, adding that groups such as the Carmel Woman's Club should do some thinking, some advising, and exert constant vigilance in community matters.

When recently asked by some prominent eastern visitors if he thought Carmel could preserve its unique qualities, Colonel Griffin said he thought it could because it managed to do so during a period when the intangibles and imponderables that constitute its charm were endangered more than may ever happen again.

Following Colonel Griffin's very interesting talk, Mrs. H. S. Upjohn, chairman of the book section, told in delightful fashion of a trip taken some years ago over a lonely Scottish moor to Craigenputtoch, former home of Thomas and Jane Carlyle, and the maneuvers by which they were finally admitted to the kitchen, their main objective.

The club room was gay with beautiful arrangements, made by Mrs. Noel Arnold, of spring flowers from her garden in Pebble Beach. A particularly lovely one of white stock, white tulips and candytuft centered the tea table, where Mrs. Leon Fisher and Mrs. Kathryn Lansdowne presided. Chairman for the tea was Mrs. Philip G. Preble.

Patrick has committed a mortal sin in placing the salvation of Oisin's soul above the truth of doctrine.

The whole question is pointed by the remarks of Mac Taill, who almost alone among Patrick's followers seemed blessed with a sense of humanity. "In the first place, I think this soul should be saved because it was the soul of a human being. Angels may be created as fast as shelling peas, and as like one another, but a soul that has endured the adventure of this life cannot be replaced by all the hierarchies of heaven for interest and companionship. — All souls are alike worth saving, but all souls are not alike interesting. —There are good souls that are, all the same, commonplace. We must be careful lest we make too large a collection of this sort. Heaven would be intolerable if it were inhabited wholly by commonplace souls and spirits without experience and with no memories to speak of.—I see this soul as a clear commanding flame, not swayed by the winds of adversity, and causing many other flames, themselves of distinguished quality and color, to incline towards it."

The final battle between Oisin and the bishops is brought to an end ignominious for the early fathers by the injection into the argument of hard and fast points of dogma. In a speech as magnificent as that of Milton's Lucifer Oisin replies to them with passionate and dramatic conviction and then takes his leave from a world he neither hopes nor wishes to understand.

Attend Roosevelt Talk

Six Carmelites were in the audience at the Civic Auditorium last Thursday evening in San Jose when Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt spoke on Is the United Nations an Instrument for Peace?

Mrs. Roosevelt believes that the UN is the best possible hope for peace but that it requires the all-out support of the people to make it work.

"Democracies need the crusading spirit," said Mrs. Roosevelt. "The eastern European nations have it. We have lost the crusading spirit because we have had democracy for so long. Do we see to it that democracy really exists in our own country?"

Stressing the necessity of supporting UN as an instrument for peace Mrs. Roosevelt said "as long as mankind has not reached the point where it is dedicated to a rule of reason the sooner we have collective force the better."

Telling of her visits to concentration camps for displaced persons Mrs. Roosevelt said that it is imperative that these people should be restored to normal life to prevent still greater chaos.

Thursday afternoon, March 13, a big reception was given in honor of Mrs. Roosevelt. At 6 o'clock a dinner was given in the Elks Hall at which James Roosevelt, chairman of the State National Committee, was to speak, but Mr. Roosevelt was ill and Mr. George Outland delivered the principal address.

Present at the dinner were Mrs. Edward Heller, National Democratic Committeewoman for California, Mrs. Adah Dodge, chairman of the Women's Division of Northern California, and Mrs. Paul Low, chairman of the Women's Division of Monterey County.

Accompanying Mrs. Low from Carmel were Mrs. Jonathan M. Rigdon, Miss Agnes Shand, Miss Shane Ryan, Miss Velona Brewer and Mrs. W. Ernest Kelly.

Mrs. Painter's Luncheon

Mrs. Don Painter entertained at a luncheon Sunday for her sister, Miss Frances Wright of San Francisco, who has come to Carmel to spend the summer. Those invited were Mrs. Robert Smith, Beverly Tait Viney, Mrs. Jack Belden, and Miss Joan Tait. Mrs. Painter recently was all set to go to China, when her orders were canceled, so she and her daughter, Susan, will remain in Carmel until Mr. Painter, an air pilot in China, finishes his job of evacuating troops. Mrs. Painter's household belongings were aboard ship, but were taken off, and they arrived here this week.

Women Voters Study Groups

The legislative study group of the League of Women Voters will meet at the home of Mrs. Lee O. Kellogg at Scenic Drive and Eleventh street next Thursday afternoon, March 27, at 2:00 o'clock with Mrs. Frances A. Ballard as chairman. The group has been having discussions of a few of the bills before the Legislature, now numbering around 4,500. The study section will be preceded by a board meeting.

The final meeting of the study section on the Central Valley Project will be held on Friday, March 28, at 2:30 p. m. in the lobby of La Ribera hotel. Mrs. Perry Newberry is leader of the group.

Peninsula U. S. O.

Miss Sue Brooks of Carmel and Mrs. Pat Sturm of Pebble Beach have been elected to membership in the Monterey Peninsula U. S. O. advisory council. The Monterey Chamber of Commerce wrote a letter thanking the U. S. O. for its co-operation in entertaining the crew of the British ship Snipe, recently anchored in Monterey Bay. The council has arranged to furnish taxicabs to take high school and other girls between the ages of 16-18 to their homes after Saturday night dances and Sunday night entertainments. Checker, California and United Cab companies have furnished this service without charge but in the future they will be compensated for their efforts.

Learned At College of Pacific

Charles H. Learned is enrolled as a student at the College of the Pacific and is making his home on the ranch near Stockton which he last year inherited from his mother, the late Mrs. Birdie C. Learned. Having long ago given up college as a bad job, Mr. Learned nevertheless had a change of heart during the war when one of his ideas turned into a valuable life-saving instrument for which the Navy praised him highly. It was the invention of a mirror-signalling device which the Navy provided all seamen as part of their equipment, and many lives were saved because of it when sailors were adrift on rafts and used it to signal passing airplanes. Mr. Learned has decided to get some more training, hoping to be able to turn more of his ideas into good use in years to come.

Redhead Baby

Pamela Anne is the name of the six pound twelve ounce baby born March 12 at the Community Hospital to Mr. and Mrs. John Redhead. On Tuesday, Mrs. Redhead and Pamela Anne went home, where Mrs. J. R. Kemp, the maternal grandmother, has been in residence. Mrs. Kemp came down from San Francisco to care for Bonny Lynn, nine-year-old sister of the new baby. Mrs. Redhead is a San Francisco girl who met John Redhead when he was studying law at Stanford. He is now law partner with Reginald Foster.

Happell-Hirvela Wedding Plans

April 29 has been set for the wedding of Claire Happell and John P. Hirvela, which will take place at St. John's Del Monte Chapel. Miss Happell, who announced the engagement at a luncheon last December, has lived in Carmel four years and is the popular young woman who served as librarian at Fort Ord. John Hirvela, whose home is in Berkeley, served as Lieutenant in the Navy under Admiral Halsey. The young people are planning a honeymoon to South America.

Carmel Missionary Society

The Carmel Missionary Society will meet at the Church of the Wayfarer on Tuesday afternoon at 2:30 with Mrs. Louise Grigsby, co-chairman, presiding. Dr. E. Leigh Mudge will speak on the theme, Hope or Apprehension. Dr. Mudge, a visitor to Carmel with his wife and daughter, has had a busy life as associate editor of Methodist publications for the publishing house in Cincinnati, instructor at Teachers' College in Edinboro, Pa., and pastor in Slippery Rock, Pa.

Renewing the pleasant custom discontinued during the war, a social half hour with tea and friendly talk will follow the program, with Wayfarer women as hostesses. All women interested are cordially invited to attend.

From Beverly Hills

Dr. and Mrs. Howard F. Murphy of Beverly Hills, and their six months' old son, Michael, who have been coming to Carmel for the last five years, are now building a home in Pebble Beach. When Dr. Murphy got his release from the Navy, where he served in the dental corps, they decided it was a good time to make the break and move north. Mrs. Murphy is Barbara, the daughter of Burl Ralston, head of the School of Medicine of the University of Southern California. Dr. Murphy is remodeling the house on Lincoln next to the Mayfair apartments and making a building suitable for a clinic.

Mrs. Hand-Col. Wylie Married

Rumors which could not be verified have been floating around Carmel for some time that Mrs. Ella Hand, widow of Brig. General D. W. Hand, and Colonel Noble J. Wylie, retired, were going to be married. Both have been in the east since January and from Williamsburg, Virginia, several weeks ago came a notice to The Pine Cone that Mr. and Mrs. N. B. Wylie of Carmel had been guests at the Williamsburg Inn. This set tongues wagging as the only N. B. Wylie in Carmel is the Colonel. Now friends have received word from the Wylies, who are in Florida, that their marriage is indeed a reality and they are enjoying a honeymoon which has taken them to Louisiana, Mrs. Wylie's former home, where they attended the Mardi Gras, as well as to Virginia and Florida. Colonel and Mrs. Wylie are now on their way to Carmel, where they will make their home.

Bachelder Guests

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas G. Ely and Mr. and Mrs. B. R. Berrick of Victoria, British Columbia, have been staying at the La Ribera, but have been guests of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Bachelder, who took the opportuity of having a reunion with Mr. Ely, who is Mr. Bachelder's nephew.

Linebarger Baby

Mr. and Mrs. Loy Linebarger Jr. are introducing their new daughter, Marcella Anne, whose early arrival March 10 caused her to be popped right into an incubator. Marcella weighed only five pounds but was so full of vitality she is now not only out of the incubator but out of Community Hospital and home. Mrs. Linebarger was Dorothy Allaire, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Allaire of Carmel. Loy Linebarger was a San Francisco man, son of Mr. and Mrs. Loy Linebarger Sr.

Poet Leaves For Texas

After a month's visit in Carmel, tomorrow Mrs. Scottie McKenzie Frasier, the well known poet and lecturer of Alabama, will leave for a protracted stay in Dallas, Texas. Mrs. Frasier is the author of Fagots of Fancy, Things That Are Mine, Business Man's Prayer, and other volumes of verse. On her lecture tours she has covered such subjects as: Budapest, The Gem of Europe; What Shall We Do With Our Talents, etc. While in Carmel Mrs. Frasier was continuing her study of psychology, attending classes at the Adult School. Her son, Major Philip Frasier, visited her here and decided to build a home here, so Carmel is sure to see Mrs. Frasier again next winter.

Mrs. Clairmonte Passes Candy

Last evening at Mrs. Glenn Clairmonte's class for Writers, the teacher herself had to present a box of candy, since the students held her responsible for this penalty when they learned she had joined the writing staff of The Carmel Pine Cone. At the close of the session the members of the group crowded into available cars and drove in a caravan to visit the new home of Mr. and Mrs. John Craig in Pacific Grove. The Craigs have attended almost every session of the writing class for more than a year and have presented a sample of their writing almost every Thursday. Since they have four children and two dogs their eviction from Ord Village posed a problem until they found a typically spacious Pacific Grove house and signed on the dotted line.

Family Reunion

For the last two years a delightful family group has gathered at Holiday House, all coming to Carmel because it was here that they spent their honeymoons. The story goes back to Dr. George Peirce, now a retired professor of Stanford University, who came to the village when it was young and built a house on what was known as Professors Row. He came to this house for his honeymoon as did the younger members of the family. Now the family has established the custom of meeting yearly in the place that is full of sentiment for all of them. The Peirce house is now occupied by the Paul McKinstrys but Holiday House next door is one of the old Professors Row and its atmosphere is of the old tradition.

In the party this year were Dr. and Mrs. Peirce, Mrs. James C. Hobart of Palo Alto, Mr. and Mrs. James C. Hobart Jr. of Palo Alto, Mr. and Mrs. Robert W. Hobart of Kentfield, and Mrs. Charles W. Skinner of Cincinnati. They had a picnic at Point Lobos and a luncheon at the Holman Ranch.

Visitors Departed

Mr. and Mrs. Robert E. Peck, who have had a three months' visit from Mr. and Mrs. Wade S. Cooke of Winsted, Connecticut, told their guests good-bye last week. Mrs. Robert McCormick of Sausalito, daughter of Mrs. Peck, spent the weekend with the Pecks.

The Voice Here

Bunte Cohn, who as Buddy Mahra is familiar to radio audiences as The Voice of Experience, spent several days at La Ribera this week. With Mr. Cohn were his mother, Mrs. Effie Cohn, and his sisters, Mrs. Laura Longtin of San Francisco and Mrs. Carol Copper of Palo Alto.

In THE DOLORES PHARMACY on Dolores you'll find intriguing large plastic Easter Eggs filled with an assortment of candy made by the famous Mrs. Stevens. Mrs. Stevens' chocolates are highly praised and after the candy is eaten the plastic eggs will amuse some member of the family for a long time to come. Other boxes in red and silver contain selected light and dark chocolates from Mrs. Stevens' kitchen and sell for $1.25 and $1.75. You'll also find Schrafft's Gold Chest candy box and Gobelin's chocolates and the White House assortment with some luscious looking milk chocolates in THE DOLORES PHARMACY.

We like the new paper draperies by Trimz which you'll find in THE PIONEER on Dolores next the Post Office. These draperies are inexpensive and beautiful, printed in fine true clear color in several designs. They are made of a specially developed paper which is flameproof, fade-proof and easily cleaned. They have the quality of a fine fabric and hang with grace and body. Completely hemmed and headed the draperies are all ready to hang. They may be pleated or gathered, hung on a rod or rings. They may be dusted with a cloth or cleaned with wallpaper cleaner.

Among hosiery men the name Northmont is mentioned with great respect and Northmont is the maker of the fine nylons you'll find in THE STOCKING SHOP in the Golden Bough Court. The prices of these nylons are very reasonable since they all come under national fair trade agreements. In a warm shade called Titian there's a beautiful nylon in a medium weight which looks very sheer and sells for $1.50. Allure is the shade of the 51 gauge nylons which cost $1.95 and look like a web of the sheerest gossamer. In addition to regular sizes the Titian shade in medium weight comes also in large sizes, 10, 10½ and 11 with extra long legs and stretchable tops which will fit comfortably around a larger leg. These are hard to find, but here they are, at $1.75.

For be-furred, be-feathered and be-ribboned Easter cards you should look in FORTIER'S on Ocean at Dolores. Among the Hallmark cards for Easter you'll find greetings of every description but the cards for children are particularly nice. There are fuzzy chickens a child would love and a wooly lamb with a sequin-studden bow on his neck. The small gift enclosure cards are very prettily sprinkled with flowers.

The fine cottons in PUTNAM AND RAGGETT on Ocean Avenue are an inspiration to a seamstress, and the quality of the material insures a long and beautiful life to your creation. The Peter Pan real woven seersucker is handsome and so is the printed pique in four basic colors. There's beautiful red and white powderpuff muslin with a permanent finish and silky chambray in red, blue, gray and green, with a wide satin-like woven stripe. A piece of delicate brown chambray has the mouth-watering color of milk chocolate. The Dan River chambrays have subtle background colors accented by pastel stripes with which you may match solid color chambray to make a cotton ensemble of striking beauty.

In GUMP'S on Dolores street you'll find floor lamps in a simple modern design to bring you light where you need it unobtrusively and beautifully. The lamps come in either chrome or brass, with a slender standard surmounted by a swinging, jointed arm, which holds the shade in any position you wish. The lights have three speeds forward—brighter, brighter and brightest, and the wide shades are made of imported Belgium linen in a form wide enough to give a generous area of light. The shades come in pink, natural, green and blue.

Ice cube trays may be found in THE McDONALD REFRIGERATION COMPANY on Fremont street in Monterey. Whether you have no trays at all or you are just weary of removing ice cubes with pick and shovel, you might look for the Quick-cube Shucker trays, which contain a patented feature that actually shucks the cubes out instantly and painlessly at the lifting of a lever. These come in two sizes, a double tray holding 28 cubes and a single one with 14 cubes. There are trays with rubber grids, too, from which the ice may be removed one cube at a time. For home-freezing look for the Zero Kits which contain everything needed for packaging any and all foods for quick freezing, large and small cellophane bags, cartons and tape, and heavy duty wrapping paper.

If you've a hankering for homemade chicken salad look no further than THE VILLAGE CORNER on Dolores and Sixth. The cakes and pies, the salads and sandwiches are all made by tested and traditional home recipes. Chicken salad is recommended this week, and any week you'll find delicious food at THE VILLAGE CORNER. As for dressings, THE VILLAGE CORNER offers you a choice of French, Thousand Island or Boiled dressing, all home made.

MAXINE'S on Dolores street has a group of entrancing short coats made in a wonderful woolen fabric loomed for Towncraft by Warren of Stafford. The coats are somewhat like sailors' pea-jackets with a dash of high style added. They're short and full and warm, with a round collar and deeply stitched simulated cuffs, a pleat in the back and a double-breasted effect in the front with two rows of round golden globe buttons. They're beautifully lined in heavy satin and the colors are soft blue, honey-beige, platinum gray, tan, white and kelly green. Did you see one in the fashion show yesterday?

About THE CARMEL LAUNDRY, now, which is on the corner of Junipero and Fifth and whose telephone number is 920. THE CARMEL LAUNDRY gives a three to five day service for finished laundry and in addition they offer a one day-or-less service for baby wash. You can bring your baby's laundry in in the early morning and it will be ready for you late that afternoon. THE CARMEL LAUNDRY also has a fine French hand laundry to which you may entrust your best linens and clothes, knowing they'll be handled with great care and efficiency. They take great pride in their silk finisher, which is not a machine at all, but a woman who knows her materials and irons them to perfection.

With Easter nearby and dreams of sugarplums in silk and satin in one's head, THE CINDERELLA SHOP on Ocean Avenue is a wonderful place to go. The new spring clothes at THE CINDERELLA are beautiful, with a feminine elegance composed of one part fine design and execution and the other part of fine materials. There are pure silk prints—one in black with pale pink spotted hyacinths—and suits with fine clean lines. One dress combines a shantung jacket in either kelly green or navy blue with a skirt made in knife pleats all way around, in which you'd look most handsome.

Wedding At Wayfarer

Margaret Beidler Kleinsteiber and Dr. John Hart Hillin were married at the Church of the Wayfarer on Sunday afternoon. Major William J. Washer of Fort Ord officiated.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold H. Beidler of Sutter county, and the niece of Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Wilson of Point Lobos. She attended high school at Monterey while living with Mr. and Mrs. Wilson. Since graduating from Yuba College she has been studying voice and piano in Sacramento.

The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Jewel C. Hillin of Henderson, Texas. He graduated as Doctor of Dentistry from Loyola University in New Orleans and served in the United States Army as Captain in the Dental Corps, stationed in Nanking, China, with the army advisory group.

The bride's gown was traditional white satin fashioned with basque bodice, sweetheart neckline, long sleeves and full skirt with wide sweep. She wore a Juliet cap embroidered with seed pearls, and finger tip veil. Her only ornament was a strand of pearls, gift of the groom. She carried a white prayer book with shower arrangement of freesias and baby orchids. The prayer book, a family heirloom, was presented to the bride's grandmother, as a confirmation gift, and has been used by all the brides in the family.

The bride was given in marriage by her father, her only attendant being her cousin, Mrs. James Hallett of Salinas, whose gown was aqua crepe fashioned with fitted bodice, long sleeves and bouffant skirt. She wore an arrangement of pink carnations in her hair and carried a colonial bouquet.

The best man was the bride's brother, Mr. Harold Keith Beidler of Marysville, Calif., who also served in the armed forces as a lieutenant in the air corps.

Music was provided by Edith Anderson who sang Beloved It Is Morn, and Calm as the Night, with Margaret Sherman Lee at the organ.

Mr. Roderick N. Wilson of San Francisco and Mr. James Hallett of Salinas, cousins of the bride, were the ushers.

For the wedding the bride's mother wore a white rum dressmaker suit with cameo pink hat and black accessories. Her flowers were gardenias and pink roses.

The reception was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wilson of Point Lobos. Assisting at the reception were Mrs. Harold Keith Beidler and Mrs. Roderick N. Wilson.

Out of town guests at the wedding, in addition to the bride's parents were: Mr. and Mrs. Roderick N. Wilson and daughters, Nicki and Sherry, of San Francisco, Mrs. Josephine Newmark of San Francisco, Mrs. Aetna Carpenter of Burlingame, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Keith Beidler and daughters, Patricia and Gloria, of Marysville, Mr. and Mrs. James Hallett, daughter Margaret, and son Timothy, of Salinas, Mr. and Mrs. E. K. Keller of Salinas, Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Brown of Pacific Grove, Dr. and Mrs. Jean Linsdale and son, Donald, of Hastings Reservation, and Mrs. Anton C. Schwarz, aunt of the bride, of Seattle, Wash.

After a two weeks' honeymoon the young couple will establish a home in Texas, where the groom will resume his dental practice.

Audubon Dinner

Last Friday night the Monterey Peninsula Audubon Society held its March meeting in the Library of Sunset School, Ferdinand Ruth presiding. It was planned to hold a membership dinner at 6 o'clock on Friday, March 28, at the Casa Munras, in honor of Allen Cruikshank, the National Audubon Society representative who will speak at 8 o'clock that evening in the Social Hall of the Monterey High School. Plans for a program of five lectures next year by nationally known naturalists were made after a vote was taken. Dr. W. A. Angwin accepted the chairmanship of the committee to make the necessary arrangements in this respect.

The following members were appointed on the nominating committee to present suggestion for staff of officers for the year 1947-48, to be voted upon at the May meeting: Glenn Clairmonte, chairman, Miss Leslie King and Mr. Laidlaw Williams.

Report on the Bluebird was then given by Dr. Angwin, report on the Pygmy Nuthatch by Allen Eversol, and Miss Leslie King reported on the White-Crowned Sparrow. Mr. Ruth then presented recordings made by Cornell University of bird songs, before the meeting adjourned.

Henrietta Shore To Conduct New Art Class Here

Henrietta Shore, one of Carmel's top painters, will be in charge of a new adult school art course, Principal John Westover announced this week.

The class will meet at Miss Shore's studio, located in Sundial Court Apartments, Seventh and Monte Verde, on Wednesday and Friday afternoons from 2:00 to 4:30, with the first meeting scheduled for March 26.

Prospective students are requested to register with Miss Shore in advance by telephoning 1059-J, or by calling at the studio. There is no tuition fee, but the size of the class will be limited.

Miss Shore's work is not only familiar to local people—she is a regular exhibitor at the gallery and had a one-man show last October—but it is known throughout the country. She has exhibited in New York, San Francisco, and a number of other American cities as well as in London, Paris and Liverpool.

C. S Lecturer Discusses "Science Of Eternal Life"

"In her book, Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures, the Discoverer and Founder of Christian Science, Mary Baker Eddy, has given to mankind, in one short sentence of only thirteen words, the most complete definition of God the world has ever known. It reads, 'God is incorporeal, divine, supreme, infinite Mind, Spirit, Soul, Principle, Life, Truth, Love,'" Harold Molter, C. S. B. of Chicago, Illinois, said in a lecture on Christian Science here last Sunday.

The title of his lecture was Christian Science, the Science of Eternal Life.

"Since God is the one and only creator," he continued, "and since the Bible testimony indicates that He is Spirit, therefore all creation must be spiritual and can have in it no element of matter. The material universe, therefore, is but the false testimony of the so-called carnal or mortal mind, and its objects are the reverse of spiritual ideas. They are illusions or false concepts.

"Christ Jesus, more than anyone else, refuted and rejected the evidence of the material senses, and replaced this false evidence with the testimony of Spirit. Jesus was a human man, divinely inspired. He was constantly showing forth, in thought and deed, the very nature and qualities of God, thus presenting to human view the true idea of God. This gave him the right to the title of Christ. Mrs. Eddy defines 'Christ' in the Glossary of Science and Health (p. 583) as follows: 'Christ. The divine manifestation of God, which comes to the flesh to destroy incarnate error.'

The destruction of the false concepts or illusions of the so-called carnal or mortal mind by the Christ-power is true salvation."

Getting Around The Peninsula

Henry Miller. Henry Miller is the man who would try anything once (or ten times) and his experiments are refreshing because he does give way to his emotional delights. If you stand at ease before one of his water colors in a moment when you are being yourself you will smile with complete understanding—and never mind trying to analyze the thing you are understanding. Most of the guests were writers and artists in their own right, all of them too concerned with their own self-expression to look for satisfaction in the other fellow's work, but everybody was happy because of the color, the music, the dancing, the punch, and the warmhearted hosts.

One of the guests who had to telephone his regrets from Los Angeles was Dan Harris, whose rehabilitation of Sue Wall's upright piano is a joy forever—inviting any little eight-year-old girl to thrill over the opportunity to practice on it. There is plenty of reason for the New York critic's diagnosis that Dan Harris is a Peter Pan, for his joyous use of line and color comes from inner depths. The Daliel Gallery in Berkeley is opening a new Dan Harris show tomorrow evening and two of his most popular oils will be on exhibit there: the provocative School for Moons and The Voyagers, as delight-filled as Shakespeare's comedies.

Miss Harriet Levy, who has been living at La Playa Hotel for the past four years, has this week finished reading the proofs of her autobiography, which Doubleday, Doran & Co. will publish on June 5. It is said to be a rich document covering Miss Levy's friendship with countless notables over more than half a century. Its locale is San Francisco.

One of the real landmarks of Carmel has been away for six months but now is at his old stand again, at the foot of Ocean Avenue on the sands, reading characters and giving free psychological advice—Marcel deMoor, the man with the beret. Monsieur deMoor has spent the last few months in Europe, lecturing in Belgium and France, and in spite of the devastation he encountered, he found many old friends and familiar places not too greatly changed. It seems perfectly natural to meet him on Dolores street, for he is the same as ever and might never have been away at all.

Of course everybody on the Peninsula is concerned about the hearing last week before the Public Utilities Commissioner in San Francisco when Carmel City Attorney William L. Hudson presented a demand that the telephone toll charges between Carmel and Monterey and Pacific Grove be eliminated. The Commissioner assured Mr. Hudson that the residents here would be afforded an opportunity to present their case at a later date if the telephone company does not work out a satisfactory arrangement. The representative of the telephone company promised to report findings at the conclusion of the current survey of the matter and expressed his opinion that a solution will surely be found to satisfy everyone. Mr. Hudson will follow through on the matter.

Here in California where a state appropriation of $375,000 is provided for the development of riding and hiking trails, it is not surprising that 2,500 men and women of this general region recently organized the Tri-County Horsemen's Association. The organizational meeting was held at the Carmel Mission Ranch last January by a steering committee of thirty outstanding horse lovers, and since then the officers and directors have been elected. Captain Ed B. Baker, Jr., of Watsonville, is the president, and Frank Flynn of Carmel is one of the directors in office for one year. There are ten avowed purposes of the Association, beginning with the determination to promote the California Riding and Hiking Trails project and running through plans to organize moonlight rides, barbecues, barn dances, beach rides, roping contests and horse shows. Such a program is likely to attract an even larger membership as time goes on. Last Saturday evening the Association held a barn dance at the Mission Ranch, and on Sunday was the second monthly rodeo, open to the public, with roping contests and other events by the members.

The Rev. Michael D. O'Connell returned from his trip to Ireland just in time to inaugurate morning masses at the beautiful, newly completed Chapel of the Blessed Sacrament at the Carmel Mission. This Chapel has been presented to the Mission by Mrs. William H. McCormick of Santa Clara, Gerald J. Bensberg of Arkansas, Ferd A. Bensberg of Santa Cruz, and Carl Bensberg of Carmel, in memory of their mother, Anne Sutter. A well known poet from The Azores, Señora de Canto y Castro, was one of the first visitors to the chapel and she exclaimed: "In this country where everything is too new and modern, how has it been possible for such a perfect replica of the old Spanish art to be erected!" She was unwittingly complimenting Harry Downie who supervised the construction. The chapel has been constructed of adobe bricks made at the Mission and the walls are 26 inches thick to conform with the design of the rest of the Mission, but the decorations within are an echo of the great Catholic traditions. The ceiling design is the sun, moon and stars pattern of Old Mexico days, and the Stations of the Cross are paintings by Mark Adams, executed in primitive style, and contributed by Irene Piazonni of Carmel Valley. An oil painting of the twelve Apostles was donated by the Count and Countess W. A. Markowsky of Carmel Valley and it enhances the simple but inspiring altar. This little Chapel will be open for daily worship although services will still be held regularly in the Mission proper.

Wayfarer Circle Pays Tribute To Dr. Crowther With Favorite Hymns

Favorite hymns of Dr. James E. Crowther, loved pastor of the Church of the Wayfarer who passed away last week, were featured in the opening service of the Wayfarer Circle at the meeting Tuesday afternoon. Dr. Olive Swezy, chairman of the Circle, expressed the appreciation of the members for the music and poetry that were an integral part of Dr. Crowther's ministry and that brought inspiration to his hearers. Dr. Swezy's paper was headed "Dr. Jim."

"There is one thought uppermost in all our minds today and it is fitting that we turn aside for a little while, leaving our customary tasks, to give some expression to it, however inadequate we may feel so to do. In a loss such as ours, we can only hold fast to the things of value which have come to us so abundantly, enriching our lives and giving us guideposts for the future. In that way only can we express our appreciation of the great privileges which have been ours the last seven years.

"To one who held a deep love of poetry with a compelling sense of his own mission in life, it was natural that the two would be combined in expressing these values. One place in which to look for them is in the hymns which he used so often that we may well place them among his favorites. One of these is We Thank Thee, Lord, Our Paths of Service. As we read this over we find that it represents a picture of his own life. He knew the slopes of need and trod the blazoned heights; he encompassed land and sea in his mission of service; he knew the touch that lightened burdens and brought peace in sorrow; he knew the beauty and splendor of God in the secret places as well as in the saffron flame spread like a mantle over hill and dale, and well he knew the splendor in the eyes of men redeemed and free. It gives a picture of his fifty years of service, service to man and through man to God, which was the foundation of his life work.

"There is another type of hymn to which he turned again and again, the one expressing a love of the beautiful in nature, a beauty which could only come from a beautiful Creator and Father who loved his children. He looked through the blooming garb of spring to see behind it the beauty of Jesus. One of these hymns is This Is My Father's World.

"One part of the work of the church which was very close to his heart was that with the young people. They are our hope for the future and he was unsparing of himself in their behalf. With them he would turn to that hymn written as a kind of litany for youth, I Would Be True.

"These hymns express the beauty of Christian life in its service to our fellowmen and especially in its service to God, the theme which ran like threads of gold through all his teachings, his work in the church and his work in the community.

"But there was a sterner note also that may be likened to threads or cables of steel which followed along with the threads of gold. This was the stern and uncompromising condemnation of our failure to live up to our Christian ideals, our forgetfulness of the teachings of Jesus, our lack of brotherhood. He was keenly alive to the turmoil and troubles of the present time and wholly unafraid of pointing out the causes and what the cure must be. It came like a bugle call for Christians to do battle with the great wrongs of the world and strive to make it a better world for everybody. Such a hymn is Rise Up, O Men of God.

"These hymns point up the high ideals for which he worked so long and so hard. To this list we must add one in his own words, The Hymn of The Wayfarer, which Mrs. McGee will read for us."

This hymn of Dr. Crowther's was printed in the church bulletin some time ago. Each of the favorite hymns was sung by the group when it was introduced, and there followed a short period of reminiscences of characteristic acts of the pastor and expressions of appreciation of his place in the life of the community. Mrs. J. E. Southwell sang Sleep On, Beloved, dedicated to his memory. In the regular program for the day Mrs. Willis White gave the devotions and Mrs. Nettie Rowe read parts of a folio of the book, Portrait of a Pilgrim, by Gallagher.

KUDER TEST

The Junior class has recently completed the Kuder Interest Test, a helpful and informative test designed to indicate vocational interests and aptitudes. This test is given each year to the junior class, an opportunity always greatly appreciated by the students.

Prof. Samuel C. May, above, head of the Department of Public Administration of the University of California, and his legal advisor, will speak for compulsory health insurance and will be opposed by Stanley C. Cochems, executive secretary of the Los Angeles County Medical Association, and Howard Hassard of San Francisco, of the firm of Peart, Baraty & Hassard, council for the California Medical Association, in a debate at Sunset Auditorium, 8:15 p. m., March 28.

Republicans Rejuvenated are presenting the debate as a public service. Admission is by ticket, obtained free of charge from any physician or dentist or at Republican Rejuvenated headquarters, room 5, 469 Alvarado street, Monterey.

Prof. May, a graduate of Yale University Law school in 1912, has had a long public career, including chairmanship of California State Planning Commission for four years; professor of political science at the University of California since 1921; director of the bureau of public administration at the university for the last 17 years; director of research of Commonwealth Club of California for 15 years; U. S. delegate to Union of Cities, Paris, 1925; International Congress of Local Authorities in London, 1932, Berlin 1934; and International Institute of Administrative Sciences, in Warsaw in 1935 and Bucharest in 1938.

Mr. Cochems has served as executive secretary of the Los Angeles County Medical Association for the last 17 years, during which he has been very active not only in the business affairs of the association, but also in public relations work, and he is regarded as an outstanding speaker. He now conducts two radio programs to bring advances in medical science to public attention.

Mr. Hassard has been attorney for the medical association for eleven years during which he gained a wide knowledge of provisions of medical care through voluntary pre-payment plan.

Three committees of physicians and dentists have been appointed to co-operate in distributing tickets to the debate. The Salinas committee consists of Drs. A. L. Wessels, John C. Sharp, F. H. Smith and S. C. Glasgow. The Monterey committee consists of Drs. Winton Swengel, J. B. McCarthy and A. J. Herrman. The dentists' committee is composed of Drs. D. Shipman Elliott, Archie Hart and Ellis G. Bovik.
